VISIBLE STATEMENT® REMINDER & RETENTION SOFTWARE FOR TRAINING

Training requires repetition to deliver long-term results. This is exactly what Visible Statement does – repeats messages via the computer's screensaver.

Visible Statement from Greenidea, Inc., uses the PC's screen saver driver to deliver animated messages (actual character animation that moves) to help viewers remember mission-critical training messages. By showing several different animated messages in random order, Visible Statement eliminates the boredom factor. The new release allows an administrator to add (author) his or her own graphic messages and distribute new content automatically from a main server.

Greenidea, Inc., has concentrated on delivering a number of off-the-shelf information security messages. These messages are not just about computer security issues, but include information on security and physical security of property and personnel. Currently, these modules include: password protection, software piracy (sharing licensed software), closing down properly (office); company asset protection (laptop and document protection); leaving workstations unattended (not logging off); challenging strangers and personal property (awareness of unauthorized visitors). More are scheduled for release, including modules on computer viruses and document handling. The animations do not contain sound.

A free evaluation copy of Visible Statement can be requested at the company web site at www.Greenidea.com.
